Foreword

In 1983, the nation experienced a decrease in the number of Part I offenses reported through the Uniform Crime Reports (UCR) program. This reduction was also evident in Mississippi where a decrease of 8.9 percent was recorded.

Although the Mississippi UCR Program ceased operations in 1983, a large number of law enforcement agencies continued their voluntary participation in the program by sending reports directly to the FBI. Their hard work and cooperation are greatly appreciated as this program is the only means currently available to gather data which can be used to indicate the level of crime in Mississippi.

Closure of the state UCR program has resulted in a lack of detailed data. Plans are being made to improve this situation next year. It is hoped that the Crime in Mississippi 1983 will still be of interest to those in the criminal justice community even though it lacks the detail of prior reports.

INTRODUCTION

Over fifty years ago, a strong need for crime statistics nationwide was expressed by concerned criminal justice professionals. Congress authorized the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) to collect, compile and analyze statistics reported from local police departments. This Uniform Crime Reporting program continues today with the International Association of Chiefs of Police and the National Sheriffs' Association serving in an advisory role.

Since that time many states have undertaken the responsibility for administering the UCR program. In 1980 Mississippi implemented a statewide program administered through the Governor's Office of Criminal Justice Planning with financial support from the Department of Justice Bureau of Justice Statistics. When these funds were depleted, the state was unable to continue funding. Therefore, in 1983 the state UCR program ceased operation thereby returning responsibility to the FBI.

The Crime in Mississippi 1983 is the first publication to be prepared since the UCR program was returned to the FBI. For that reason, the data presented are less detailed with subsequent analysis being severely limited. However, it was decided that reporting the available data may still prove interesting and useful for the criminal justice audience. It should be noted that all crime statistics for 1983 were derived from either Crime in the U.S. 1983 or data provided by the FBI.

The UCR program requires that offenses be classified according to standard definitions (provided in a later section). There are seven offenses which comprise the crime index (Part I offenses):

Violent Crimes

- 1) Murder
- 2) Rape
- 3) Robbery
- 4) Aggravated Assault

Property Crimes

- 5) Burglary
- 6) Larceny
- 7) Motor Vehicle Theft

In recent years, arson has been added as the eighth index crime; however, due to questions regarding the reported data, arson has not been included in any overall trend data.

Crime rates have been calculated in several instances. These rates indicate the number of Index Crimes per unit of population (i.e., 100,000). The crime rate does not take into consideration other factors which contribute to the amount of crime. The crime rates are provided merely as a measure for comparing crime across geographical regions.

1983 CRIME INDEX

As mentioned earlier, the crime index consists of the 7 Part I offenses: murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny, and motor vehicle theft.

DATA SUMMARY

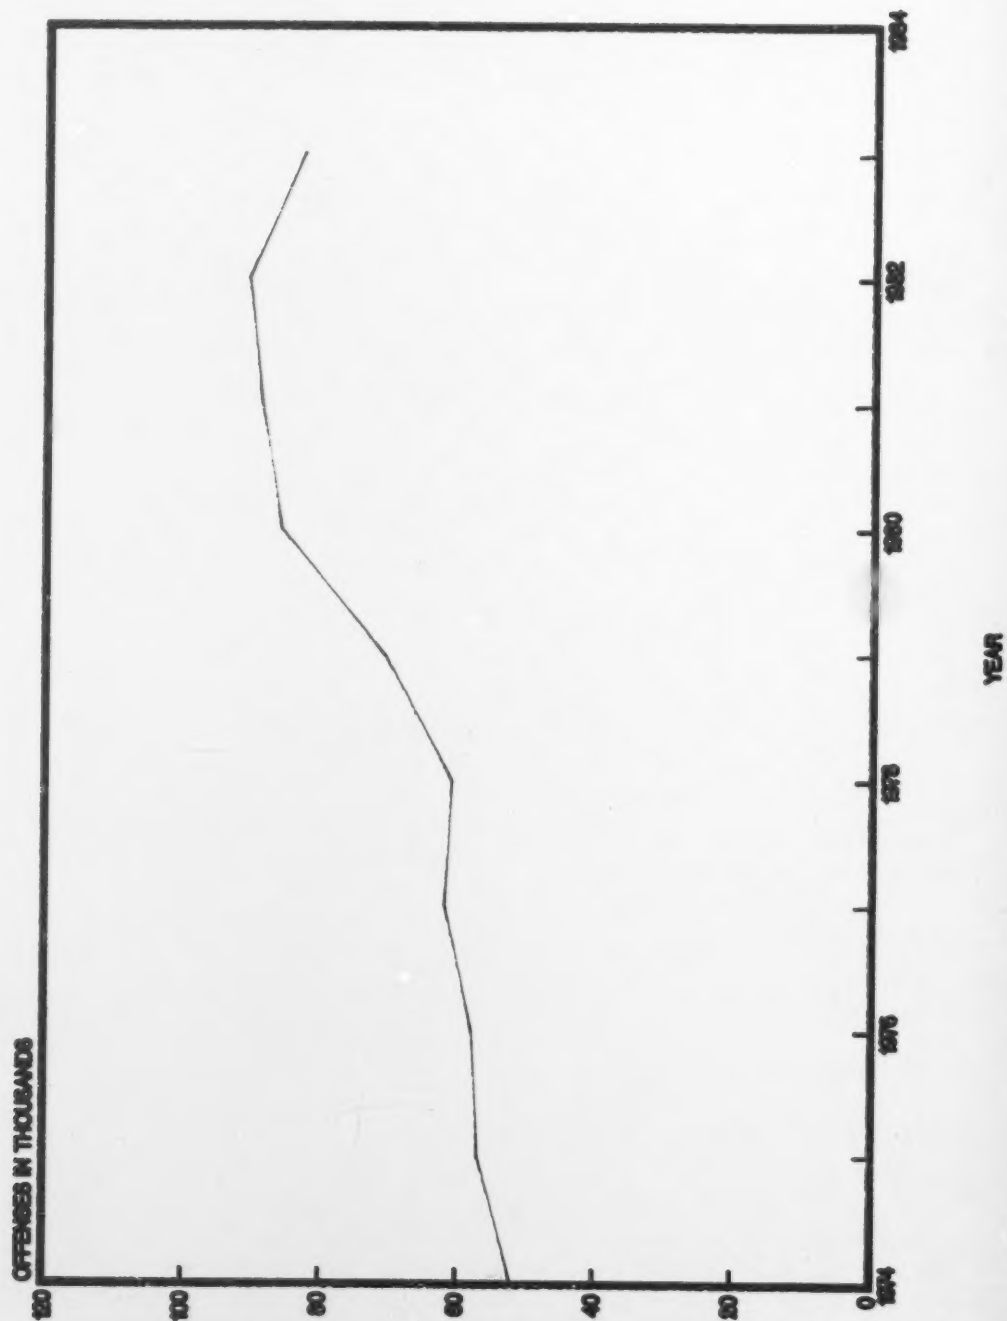

- A total of 82,995 Part I offenses were reported in 1983. During this year, the number of Part I offenses decreased 8.9 percent compared to those reported in 1982.
- The total crime rate in Mississippi was 3,208.2 per 100,000 population.
- On the average, one Part I offense was committed every 6 minutes.

MURDER

Definition: The willful (non-negligent) killing of one human being by another. The classification of this offense, as for all other index crimes, is based solely on police investigations as opposed to the determination of a court, medical examiner, coroner, jury, or other judicial body. Deaths caused by negligence, suicide, or accident are not included in the count for this classification. The killings of felons by private citizens or by police officers in the line of duty are considered justifiable homicides by UCR and are excluded from this count. Attempts to murder are scored as aggravated assaults.

DATA SUMMARY

- A total of 290 murders was reported in 1983. During this year, the number of murders decreased 19.0 percent compared to those reported in 1982.
- Murders accounted for 4.0 percent of all violent crimes and 0.3 percent of the total crime index.
- The murder rate in Mississippi was 11.2 per 100,000 population.
- On the average, one murder was committed every 30 hours and 12 minutes.
